THE VIEW FROM MY WINDOW

I was talking to my brother John the other day & he shared this story with me: We were at a wedding & because I was dressed more formally than usual, my grandson Aldan (2½) didn't pick me out of the crowd at first. Finally, when he looked up & recognized me, he pulled free of his mother's grip, broke into a full run, & called out, "Pa-pa I'm coming!"

John is a man with many accomplishments to his credit: youngest top salesman in his district (many years ago), president of a company, leadership advisor to churches, etc. Yet he told me that his grandson running into his arms was the proudest moment of his life.

Sometimes it's not what the recognition is – a gold watch, a trophy, or even a new car – sometimes it all hinges on who recognizes you. This morning we'll be talking about the 'resurrected Jesus.' Knowing about Him won't get you into heaven but knowing Him will. If you know Him like you should, the gold streets, pearl gates, & precious gems won't be what you'll be looking for in heaven. "Jesus, I'm coming!"
