The View From My Window
WITH PASTOR JOEL

You're young, free, strong, fast...then you have kids. Kids slow you down, weigh you down & restrict your activities. Everything you do is a little (or a lot) harder because you have to deal with the children first. Will they be cared for? Will they have a good time? Will they embarrass you by the way they behave?

But then there is that other side of parenting where you've never felt more loved, needed or engaged in the simple things of life. Watching your child grow is priceless: first words, first steps, first day of school, first basket, first hit, first dance...

So yes, maybe you've slowed down a little, but now you've become "us" & two or three or however many is always better than one.

Happy Father's Day!

- Pastor Joel
